

Beaumont Quarry an Oasis in Cork City

Beaumont Quarry is a disused limestone quarry within Cork City. The natural habitats within the Quarry are important for wildlife and it is a great place for all the family to visit and enjoy for its amazing wildlife.

Animal and insects

Plants

Beaumont Quarry is home to several rare and scarce plant species like Little-Robin, Pale Flax and Common Toadflax.

The site is haven for many birds typically found in urban habitats. Bats also live within the Quarry as well as many insects such as the small tortoiseshell butterfly and the seven spot ladybird.

Importance

Its calcareous grassland supports a range of associated species.

Help us to conserve and maintain the beautiful biodiversity within the Quarry for the next generations.

Cork Nature Network

Email: Beaumontcnn@gmail.com

Web: www.corknaturenetwork.ie

Comhairle Cathrach Chorcaí
Cork City Council

